HMS invites to SMM 2012

The 25th SMM (shipbuilding, machinery & marine technology international trade fair Hamburg) will once again prove it truly is the leading trade event of the world's maritime industry: more than 2,000 exhibitors from over 60 countries will present the finest innovative products and services. SMM 2012 will be under the patronage of German chancellor Angela Merkel, who has at several occasions emphasised the importance of shipping for global trade and the economic well-being of mankind. The Hanseatic Marine Services Group proudly utilizes this magnificent event to invite its friends and customers on its stand at SMM 2012.

SMM is a success story. Founded 25 years ago as „Schiff, Maschine, Meerestechnik“ the fair quickly became the world's leading international maritime trading event of the world. Today, Hamburg Messe provides twelve halls covering 90,000 square metres. "SMM is a unique platform bringing together key decision-makers from both the supplier and the customer sides," a CEO says, whose company is present at SMM since many years.

The fair reflects the full performance spectrum of an entire industry: traditionally shipbuilding, the shipbuilding supply industry, ship's safety industry, offshore industry, defence industry, environmental protection, research and development, ship's finance and just as well ship owners, ship operators and ship suppliers as for example the HMS-Group.

And last but not least: SMM is an unique place to make new and most useful contacts, to brush up old ones and to discuss new ideas.

The originally Hamburg-based SMM has expanded and successfully exported its leading brand: „SMM Istanbul“ and „SMM India“ are firmly implemented in two economic regions that are of pivotal importance for the maritime industry.

The SMM from 4 to 7 September 2012, celebrating its 25th jubilee, will once again be an exciting international trade fair. And besides the business: an attractive special events programme with over 150 individual events will await the 50,000-plus industry professionals attending SMM. On the evening before the first exhibition day, SMM will be officially opened in a ceremony at the CCH Congress Center Hamburg.
